FAAAT think & do tank is an international advocacy and research organization that addresses the policies of addiction, controlled and illicit drugs, plants, products or substances liable to produce harms or use disorders.

Moving towards evidence-based, democratic, transparent and measurable drug policies. Framed by fundamental rights & grounded on sustainable development.

Empowering people and communities | enhancing social justice and health.

We research rigorous and ethical policy alternatives.

We take action through advocacy at all level including social engineering, partnership and collective action.

We work to upgrade policies and practices.

INTRODUCTION

Cannabis policies are getting transformed all around the world. Businesses are springing up and, from Thailand to Canada and from Lesotho to France, societies are getting prepared to change their approach and relation with this mighty plant and its multiple applications.

However, international regulations on cannabis are still incoherent and outdated, as the United Nations international Treaties still consider Cannabis as a harmful drug without medical value.

At its Special Session on the world drug phenomenon (UNGASS 2016), the UN General Assembly requested all interested parties (civil society, academia, the private sector, and affected populations), to scale-up their involvement in the design and update of International drug policies.

A year later the UN Commission on Narcotic Drugs (CND) reiterated this demand, explicitly calling for the provision of inputs to the key High-Level Segment of the 62nd CND in March 2019.

The International Cannabis Policy Conference directly answers these requests, through the gathering of affected and interested parties to provide substantive contributions on future policies and regulations on Cannabis, in line with the 2030 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

LIST OF CONFERENCE SPEAKERS

Kenza Afsahi

Kenza Afsahi was born in Rabat, Morocco, where she spent her first twenty years. She is a lecturer in sociology at the University of Bordeaux and a researcher at the Emile Durkheim Center (CNRS) in France. She is co-leader of the Sociologie research axis of the International at the Emile Durkheim Center and member of the editorial board of the French Journal of Visual Methods (Revue Française des Méthodes Visuelles). She is also associated with the Center for Sociological Research on Law and Penal Institutions (CNRS). At the University of Bordeaux, she teaches the sociology of deviance, the sociology of the cannabis market, visual sociology, issues of women's involvement in the drug market and environmental crime.

Steve Allin

Teacher, Writer and Activist. Steve has enthusiastically pioneered and promoted the use of Hemp as a building material since 1997 when he first used it on his own home which he was in the process of constructing. He furthered his involvement when he wrote the first book on the subject "Building with Hemp" in 2005 after being deluged with requests for information. He has subsequently gone on to form the international Hemp Building Association in 2009 and has worked as a consultant focussing on establishing hemp production and use as a building material in many parts of the world including, Costa Rica, Baltic States, Scandinavia, Haiti, Nepal, the USA and from his home in Ireland. He is often a speaker at conferences and is currently working on a new book featuring Hemp Building projects.

Patricia Amiguet

In 2011 she founded the Cannabis Association of Self-Consumption Pachamama, of which she is currently the secretary.

Current president of the Federation of Cannabis Associations of Catalonia (CatFAC), Foundress and component of the Motor Group of REMA, (State Network of Anti-Prohibition Women in Drug Matters) and member of the CAB (Council of Associations of Barcelona).

She works and struggles day by day for the normalization and comprehensive regulation of cannabis and for a change in current prohibitive and punitive drug policies that have miserably failed.

Olivier Bertrand (MD)

40 years old, general practitioner since 2010, author of a thesis exploring the perceptions of his colleagues on alcohol, cannabis and tobacco in 2014, being a capacity in the field of addiction since 2018. Longtime activist for a reform of the laws towards hemp, he already developed cannabis risk reduction measures in the 2000s in association with CIRC Nord-est. As a co-founder of the Chanvre et Libertés association in 2014 with Kenzi Riboulet (FAAAT), which evolved to NORML France in September 2017, Bertrand, MD is in charge of coordinating the structure, but also human resources, training and health issues. Its objectives are to promote scientific research on phytocannabinoids, to educate the population on hemp and its uses, to support medical users as well as those with problematic use. He is also committed to gathering the civil society around scientifically supported advocacy about the benefits of cannabis regulation both at the societal and medical levels.

Manu Caddie

Manu Caddie's background is in community development and his foreground is focused on research and IP development for a dozen natural health products including GMP pharma cannabinoids and the first medical cannabis product grown, clinically trialled, manufactured, licensed in and exported from New Zealand.

Myrtle Clarke & Julian Stobbs

Myrtle Clarke and Julian Stobbs are responsible for South Africa's only Cannabis legalisation NGO, Fields of Green for ALL. They are affectionately known as "The Dagga Couple", Dagga being the local word for Cannabis. After being arrested in their home in 2010 on charges of possession and dealing in Cannabis, they embarked on a legal challenge to change the South African Cannabis laws. Their trial, dubbed "The Trial of the Plant" started in 2017 but was postponed due to the court running out of time. In September 2018 Julian & Myrtle intervened in another case in the Constitutional Court of South Africa. This resulted in a judgement that allows for the cultivation and possession of Cannabis for personal use by adults in private spaces. The SA government was given two years to change the law. This is, however, not the end of the story. Myrtle & Julian's case is ongoing as they are still faced with charges of "dealing" and all trade in Cannabis in South Africa remains prohibited. In the 8 years since their arrest, Julian and Myrtle have fought for evidence to be heard around all uses of the Cannabis plant and on behalf of all citizens. With its world renowned constitution and massive unregulated market, South Africa is uniquely placed to craft regulations that work for its people in a sustainable way. This is why The Dagga Couple have taken their story around the world, gathering inspiration from both developed and "developing" countries in order to help civil society in their country find its voice and make it heard. Fields of Green for ALL!

Dominic Corva (PhD.)

Dominic Corva, MD is the Founder and Executive Director of the Center for the Study of Cannabis and Social Policy (CASP). He is an Associate Faculty member of Humboldt State University's Department of Sociology, the institution where he has been an Affiliate Researcher for the Humboldt Institute for Interdisciplinary Cannabis Research for the last six years. He is the co-editor for the forthcoming (December 2019) Routledge Handbook of Interdisciplinary Cannabis Research. He leads The Cannabis Alliance's legislative committee to vacate cannabis convictions and is the producer of the Original Terpefestival, the first terpene-focused Cannabis Whole Plant popular education and craft product fair.

Graham De Barra

Described as a mover and shaker; Graham has launched social campaigns and founded several tech startups. With a passion for systems reform, Graham strives to remove inefficient bureaucratic layers from the fabric of society and increase transparency around governance issues with decentralisation. Graham previously worked for the Council of Europe where he underwent research on the entire case law of the European Court of Human Rights in relation to drug offences. His research was published on the United Nations Office of the High Commissioner of Human Rights website.

Graham regularly presents issues of human rights and blockchain at conferences around the World. Having been featured on Forbes, RTÉ Prime Time, Vice News, Silicon Republic, Cointelegraph, thejournal.ie, Newstalk, and RTÉ 2 "Reality Bites", Graham holds the ability to present social and political concepts to the mass media through the narrative of storytelling. Graham consulted on the Education and Prevention Committee to the National Drugs Strategy (2017 – 2024) which adopted his recommendations for evidence-based education and drug testing at festivals. The first welfare service of its kind for an Irish festival was introduced at Electric Picnic in 2016 by Help Not Harm where Graham was the Executive Director.

LIST OF CONFERENCE SPEAKERS

Graham holds a LL.M in international human rights law, B.A in philosophy and was awarded a full academic scholarship to the Central European University summer school. During his studies, Graham founded Ireland's first Students for Sensible Drug Policy university society, first in UCC and then in NUI Galway. Graham chaired the largest medical cannabis conference in the European Parliament which featured medical practitioners and governments across the EU and the rest of the world. Graham hosted the Global Medical Cannabis conference which was a catalyst to Ireland's medical cannabis programme. Graham's current interest focuses on bringing cryptocurrency and decentralisation to the masses.

Martin Díaz Velasquez

Co-Founder & CEO of Knowmad Institut

Experience: Human Rights & Drug Policy Advocacy at United Nations, Open Source Software Advocacy, Communications and new media; Research, Event organization, Public Relations, Interreligious Relations and international Networking

Nic Easley

As a Veteran of the U.S. Air Force Nic Easley personally experienced the therapeutic value of the cannabis plant. This combined with 15 years of agricultural experience and a degree in Biology and Environment Studies inspired him to enter the cannabis industry. Having started his work in the industry in Colorado's early medical market and since expanded into 30 U.S. states and 13 countries, I've witnessed the numerous pitfalls experienced by cannabis entrepreneurs across the industry. He has also seen the environmental and social travesties related to poor cultivation, extraction and manufacturing techniques; including the safety hazards attributed to the widespread use of pesticides. As pioneers and leaders in the cannabis industry, Nic thinks there is a great responsibility to ensure that they don't pursue profits at the expense of the environment or our society.

Lezli Engelking

With a distinguished professional career spanning more than two decades, Ms. Engelking has considerable experience in pharmaceuticals, government relations, mental health, and nonprofit industries. Her twelve-year tenure with Eli Lilly and Company was the perfect foundation for her next role as Executive Director of the first vertically integrated medical cannabis chain in Phoenix, Arizona. Her first-hand experience working in the unregulated cannabis industry led Ms. Engelking to found FOCUS, The Cannabis Health & Safety Organization, in 2014.

Hanka Gabrielová

Hanka Gabrielová is a 20 year veteran in the hemp and cannabis industry. Her career spans the gamut of policy, NGO and for-profit organizations. She has led advocacy and policy initiatives both in the EU and international arenas. She is the CEO of company Hempoint which grows and processes organic hemp flowers and distributes a variety of hemp food products. They also distribute hemp seeds for farmers and offer consulting. Hana uses Hempoint as a vehicle for her policy work with various non profit organizations including EIHA, FAAAT, KOPAC and IMCPC. Additionally Hana is working on the development of cannabis industry standards with ICCI on a project called Patient Focused Certification. In 2018 she become president of CzechHemp cluster.

Sergei is seen as one of the top experts in the world with regard to this industry and is continually being invited to talk around the world on the subject. Hempire in 2017 won several International awards, including the EBRD Climate Innovation Award.

Michael Krawitz

A disabled United States Air Force Veteran [Sergeant, 1981 – 1986]. Michael Krawitz serves as Executive director of Veterans For Medical Cannabis Access [VMCA] as well as other board and advisory roles. After California's 1996 Proposition 215 Michael observed that cannabis used as a palliative adjunct pain treatment to opiates not only produced better pain relief but also significantly lowered the number of pain pills used. Michael identified the emerging use of so-called "pain contracts" as a policy that would eventually make it impossible for patients to use cannabis as an adjunct medication and therefore lose any associated opiate overdose and suicide reduction. With the help of Michael's intervention, the VA has revised its pain management system removing the "pain contracts" in favor of a policy based upon informed consent. Leading VMCA Michael successfully negotiated the first ever VA medical cannabis policy in 2010 and has since overseen the nationwide effort to add Post Traumatic Stress as a qualifying condition under state medical marijuana access laws. Currently Michael is a leader of the working group on medicinal access to cannabis in the final stages of the Critical- Review process of the World Health Organization Expert Committee on Drug Dependence.

Ethan Nadelmann

Described by Rolling Stone as "the point man" for drug policy reform efforts and "the real drug czar," Ethan Nadelmann is widely regarded as the outstanding proponent of drug policy reform both in the United States and abroad. He founded and directed (from 2000 to 2017) the Drug Policy Alliance.

Ethan was born in New York City and received his BA, JD, and PhD from Harvard, and a master's degree in international relations from the London School of Economics. He then taught politics and public affairs at Princeton University from 1987 to 1994, where his speaking and writings on drug policy attracted international attention.

He has authored two books on the internationalization of criminal law enforcement – Cops Across Borders and (with Peter Andreas) Policing The Globe – and his writings have appeared in most major media outlets in the U.S. as well as top academic journals (e.g., Science, International Organization), policy journals (Foreign Affairs, Foreign Policy, Washington Quarterly, Public Interest) and political publications from the right (National Review) to the left (The Nation). He is interviewed frequently by media, including The Colbert Report, The O'Reilly Factor, Real Time with Bill Maher, and news programs on all the major U.S. networks as well as dozens of networks elsewhere. His TED Talk, delivered at TEDGlobal in Rio de Janeiro in October 2014, has more than 1.5 million views, with translations into 28 languages.

In 1994, Ethan founded the Lindesmith Center, a drug policy institute created with the philanthropic support of George Soros. A year later, he co-founded the Open Society Institute's International Harm Reduction Development (IHRD) program. In 2000, the growing Center merged with the Drug Policy Foundation to form the Drug Policy Alliance. Ethan currently serves on the advisory board of the Open Society Foundation's Global Drug Policy Project (GDPP) and as an advisor to the Global Commission on Drug Policy. He has played a key role as drug policy advisor to George Soros and other prominent philanthropists as well as elected officials ranging from mayors, governors and state and federal legislators in the U.S. to presidents and cabinet ministers outside the U.S.

Chrystal Ortiz

Chrystal Ortiz is a permaculture gardener, Cannabis medicine maker and educator. Chrystal is the co-founder of High Water Farm, co-chair of Women Cultivating Community, and a founding board member for the International Cannabis Farmers Association. Based on her experience branding and promoting Humboldt-grown Cannabis to dispensaries throughout California, Chrystal believes that claiming and protecting geographical appellations will be crucial to brand identity and integrity.

As part of Humboldt County's track and trace program, Chrystal has been actively involved in early efforts to designate appellations of origin. While proof of origin is a strong first step, Chrystal is focused on the development of deeper quality control standards including the use of native soil, innovative (and ancient) farming practices, integrated pest management, properly timed harvests and curing standards. Chrystal believes that the Emerald Triangle has a great responsibility to accurately identify and define our appellation designations.

Jerome McCormick

Jerome McCormick is a founder of Veriphy and member of Help Not Harm (Ireland). As a blockchain researcher he is interested in using this technology for healthcare purposes, to enhance patient quality of life and patient outcomes. The mission is to assemble a platform that allows patients to design, participate in, analyse and publish their own decentralised patient studies into plant based protocols that are by their nature non-patentable products. His research so far has indicated that it is possible to implement a blind, randomised, placebo controlled study without needing a centralised authority. Patient groups will be able to study their own illnesses using various existing blockchain protocols to elevate mere anecdotal observations into powerful, statistically significant data sets. Ultimately the goal is to build a new pharmacopeia of plant medicine backed by these decentralised studies including studies into preventative medicine, dietary protocols and any other natural and non invasive therapies.

Cocoa beans are the fermented seeds of the cacao tree, which stands about 12-25 feet tall and grows naturally in tropical climates. The fruit of the cocoa tree is a pod full of sweet pulp enfolding a cluster of about 20-40 cacao seeds which are processed to manufacture chocolate. The healing and medicinal benefits of cocoa have been appreciated since the times of ancient Mayan and Aztec civilizations. Some of its health benefits include: improved cardiovascular and brain health, high antioxidant capacity, aid in treating diabetes, and enhanced mood.

Coconut is one of the most used fruits in the culture of Jamaica. Hundreds of coconut species are found all over the world and its taste vary according to its soil alkalinity. Its outer part is of green in colour which turns brown as it matures. Underneath the hard shell is the sweet white edible meat along with containing some water. Some of its health benefits include: aiding digestion, controlling diabetes, improved blood cholesterol, improved skin, healthy hair, and acts as a natural sunblock.

Breadfruit is a tropical fruit related to other exotic fruits like breadnut, jackfruit, figs and mulberries and is a staple food in many tropical regions. The fruit can be roasted, baked, fried and even boiled before consumption. The flesh of the breadfruit has a nice fragrance and a sweet taste. Some of its health benefits include: improved cardiovascular health, boosted immunity, aiding digestion, preventing skin inflammation, and aiding collagen production.

Cannabis, also known as ganja in Jamaica, is a psychoactive plant intended for medical or recreational use. The main psychoactive part of cannabis is tetrahydrocannabinol (THC); one of 483 known compounds in the plant, including at least 65 other cannabinoids. Cannabis can be used by smoking, vaporizing, within food, or as an extract. Cannabis has shown evidence to treat AIDS wasting syndrome, epilepsy, rheumatoid arthritis, and glaucoma. The plant is also used to treat anxiety, stress, lack of appetite, depression, and PTSD.

Ackee is a colorful and delicious fruit that is a popular ingredient in Caribbean cuisine, both for its flavor and its beneficial health properties. Most famously, ackee is the complementary part of saltfish and ackee, the national dish of Jamaica. More important than its flavor and availability, this fruit is packed with health benefits such as: aiding digestion, lowered blood pressure, improved heart health, increased bone health, and boosted immunity.

Guavas are a very common type of fruit with unique flavour and fragrance which is hailed as one of the super fruits due to the numerous health benefits it offers. This humble fruit is extraordinarily rich in vitamin C, lycopene and antioxidants that are beneficial for skin. Guavas are also rich in manganese which helps the body to absorb other key nutrients from the food that we eat.
